Introduction

Youth is the link that connects the present with the future as well as the past generation to the present generation. The youth is an important asset that carries the potential of creating a bright future. At the same time, the youth of today is very impressive on the society suffers from the problem of youth delinquency, which is a great threat for any progressive nation. Therefore for proper development and progress of society, it is for more important that there should be proper rules and regulations that guard the action of the growing children which will be shaping into the youth of the future and it will be deciding the fortune of the future generation. Naghma Siddiqi stated in her chapter 'Building Youth for a Bright Future'. (Siddiqi, 2014-15)

'The youth is the hope of our future.'

The youth of today want to enjoy their rights and they also protest for all the wrong things which they see around them. They need a perfect role model in order to motivate them to go and progress in the right direction. The youth of today is full of energy and creativity. The youth of today needs proper infrastructure to shape their avenues. Social media is also an important platform to exhibit their creative talent and hidden potential. Social media, at the same time, can prove very dangerous to the youth, it presents the contents which lead to the destruction of the mind and creativity. The nation must think very positively and attentively for the upliftment of the youth so that they can be shaped into better human beings and a better generation. The youth who have indulged in violence and destruction must be given good counseling and guidance so that their energy must be utilized in the right and fruitful direction. The youth is the most significant part of the nation, therefore great responsibility lies on their shoulder. Youth education is related to the educational opportunities as well as financial assistance from the nation in terms of scholarships, fellowships, and other reductions of the educational expenses which are difficult for any middle class to manage. The financial arrangements for the proper education of the youth must be managed by the government.

One more thing is also very important for the balanced development of the nation, which is a proper facility of food and nutrition to the backward and unprivileged children. The children must not be the victim of malnutrition and other disabilities arising out of their poverty or lack of resources. Nutrition is one of the most serious problems which must be acknowledged. For proper function of society, it is equally important and essential that the children who fall of the growing age must be provided with good food and balanced diet. Food and nutrition should also be combined with proper care and good medical facilities so that the nation must not face the problem of disease. The problem of malnutrition must be tackled. If the nation goes through various NGOs and other government agencies.

Provide a Healthy atmosphere for Bright Future

For a bright future, it is necessary that youth should be healthy not only physically but also mentally. In today's era, stress is an important factor that prevents youth from developing to their full potential. There can be many reasons for stress such as health-related problems, marriage issues, internal contradiction, conflict of values and beliefs between generation and education burden, etc. Due to all these stress reasons, another result comes in front of us, which in today's time we see in youth that even a little stress in their mind leads to thoughts of suicide. Sociological thinker E. Durkheim has also presented his thoughts about suicide in his book and says that the reason for this suicide is society, even if society has a lot of control, people commit suicide and if society has very little control, still people commit suicide. In his book 'The Suicide', he described three types of suicide i.e. Altruistic suicide, Anomic suicide, and Egoistic suicide (Durkheim, 1952). If seen, Durkheim blamed society for suicide, that's why we should give such a healthy atmosphere to the youth of today so that they can develop their abilities and at the same time can adjust to the changing circumstances

Education as an Important Tool for the Upliftment of the Society

Education is an important tool for the upliftment of the character as well as for the progress of any civilization. Educating a nation also empowers the citizen of the nation. There is an immense need to propagate the right values through a proper education system that can lead to harmony and peace in society. A healthy atmosphere can be created by imparting good education to all the sections of society. If proper laws and provisions will be made, then no class of youth will be left unattended and therefore the growing-up children will be shaped up to further improve the society. Nelson Mandela gave his views on education and said that education plays an important role in changing the world. Below mentioned in the words of Nelson Mandela (Mandela, 2014).

“Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world”

Provision of proper hobby and art courses

The youth and the children will not be miss guided if they will be provided proper guidance and hobby that can absorb their talent and will shape their talent. This way their talent will not be wasted and they will find better options to exhibit their best of abilities.

The growing up children will also be getting guidance by receiving vocational guidance which will shape their future and this way they will be participating in the growth of the nation.

Conclusion

The safety and protection of the children are also some of the most significant factors. If the children or the youth will witness and experience violence in their growing years, then they will exhibit some characteristics in their letter years..... For the proper development of the youth, this must be taken care of that a healthy atmosphere is a healthy surrounding must be provided to them. The healthy surrounding and atmosphere will save them as good human being both mentally as well as psychologically. A great nation can be created by putting great and extra care into the children and youth today.
